Assaf Harel participated in a “war game” that simulates a cyber attack against Israeli society

News

The event took place in the course of a conference held by the Israel Bar Association, to mark International Data Privacy Day.

The war game, in which various senior members of the Israel Privacy Protection Authority also participated, focused on the legal dilemmas facing a company at the time of a cyber crisis, including issues pertaining to the payment of a ransom, making reports to the regulator and to the customers, and many others.
