The National Book Month

News

As part of the National Book Month, and in cooperation with project "Other Story", a second-hand book fair was held at the office in memory of the late Hagar Alon-Windman, a partner in the office who died of cancer when she was only 35 years old. At the book fair, 106 books were sold, the proceeds of which were a donation to the "All Good" group that works to promote and integrate people with disabilities in the job market. Did you know that "Repetitive Story" is a rehabilitation center for people facing occupational barriers, through reusing books? Such rehabilitation enables experience and learning of professional skills and tools and an opportunity to re-adapt to the natural job market. This way, "Repetitive Story" promotes sustainable values, with a green environment and encourages significant rehabilitation employment in the community.
